

■ TRAVEL, TOURISM AND HOSPITALITY CERTIFICATE (TRVL)

Concentrations: Hospitality Management, Travel Management Knight Campus, Warwick only

Tourism is currently Rhode Island's second-largest and fastest-growing industry. The CCRI Travel, Tourism and Hospitality program provides students with the skills and knowledge necessary for successful careers in this growing industry. Graduates are prepared for entry-level positions with airlines, airport operations, car rental companies, conventions and meetings, corporate travel, cruise industry and the lodging industry. In their last semester, students are given the opportunity to work in a local travel or hospitality environment. Students have a choice of either a travel management or lodging management concentration. This certificate program is offered through Administrative Office Technology.

TRANSFER: All general education as well as Travel and Hospitality courses transfer to Johnson & Wales for Travel, Tourism and Hospitality certificate.

Students who complete the Travel, Tourism and Hospitality certificate program have two options:

- Enter the travel and tourism industry with marketable skills and training.
- Continue their education in the CCRI General Studies program. The General Studies degree program requires 60 credits for completion, 28 of which are elective credits. The Travel, Tourism and Hospitality certificate program requires 34 credits, including six in math and English, which are also part of the General Studies program. The remaining 28 credits from this program can be used to meet the 28 elective credits for the General Studies degree. Note: Students may complete the Travel, Tourism and Hospitality certificate program first and then apply all credits toward a General Studies degree or work concurrently in the two programs.

■ CULINARY ARTS ASSISTANT CERTIFICATE (CULN)

Flanagan Campus, Lincoln and Davies Career and Technical School

The Culinary Arts Assistant certificate program is a one-semester, full-time program designed to provide the skills and training in food production required for today's job market. The purpose of the program is to address the expressed need for entry-level, skilled workers in the Rhode Island's food service industry. It aims to prepare competent, industry-ready individuals for employment in a variety of food-related establishments. NOTE: The Culinary Arts Assistant certificate program requires a special fee. Contact the Bursar's office for more information.

Admissions requirements: To be admitted to this program you must:

- Submit an official high school transcript or GED including the date of graduation
- Demonstrate competency through standardized ACCUPLACER test scores in English, math and reading
- Attend a mandatory information session

Important:

- This is a full-time program with classes meeting from 1 to 8 p.m.
- Enrollment is limited to 12 students each semester. Students must reapply if they are not admitted for the semester of their choice.
- There is a $1000 lab fee for this program.
