Volunteer Agency Guide

The purpose of CCRI’s Volunteer Agency Guide is to provide students with information and access to over 100 nonprofit agencies throughout Rhode Island where they can do volunteer work. Students can volunteer through their course work for academic credit or just as a way of giving back to the community. We do not guarantee placement, but we do offer our support. Some agencies require mandatory training prior to serving. Community Service is a great way of staying involved in the community and it looks good on your resume or transcript.

Contact: Volunteer Coordinator
401-347-9093
Email: vcoordinator@aplacetobehealthy.org
Website: www.aplacetobehealthy.org

Clinica Esperanza provides free, high quality, and culturally sensitive medical care to uninsured Rhode Island residents. All of our care is provided by medical and non-medical volunteers. We provide continuous primary care to over 1500 people, and see thousands more through walk-in clinics and community health screenings. One of our most important health education and disease prevention efforts is Vida Sana (Healthy Life), a program run by Navegantes (Community Health Workers) to improve health literacy and self-management of chronic disease.

Volunteer Opportunities: We are open Monday – Friday, from 2PM to 5 or 6PM, and Saturday from 10AM-2PM. We also have a clinic on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 5-8PM. Our volunteers commit to one (or more) of those shifts per week (or biweekly). We have three main positions available for non-medical volunteers: Front Desk, Interpreter, and Intake. The front desk volunteer greets patients, signs them in, handles patient paperwork, enters appointments, answers the phone, etc. The interpreters work with medical and non-medical volunteers to translate between English and Spanish (or French, Arabic, Creole, etc). The intake volunteers conduct the patient interview, including taking vital signs, history, symptoms, etc. We also have many research and outreach projects circulating all the time which many of our volunteers choose to participate in. We have medical volunteer opportunities for the following healthcare professionals: MD, DO, NP, PA, RN, medical assistants, etc.

Focus: The PCI Walking School Bus was created to address chronic absenteeism using volunteers. Our dedicated volunteers ensure that each child, living within a mile of school and needing to walk, arrives on time and returns home safely, even when a family member is unable to walk with him or her. The program has improved the attendance of students who were considered chronically absent (meaning they missed 10% or more of the school days) to perfect or near perfect attendance. The Walking School Bus currently serves the Mary E. Fogarty and the Robert L. Bailey IV elementary schools located in Providence, Rhode Island. Both schools have a waiting list of students needing the program. Adding to our team of volunteers would enable us to enroll more children into the program! Can you help? Focus: Volunteers/Mentors

BECOME A MENTOR... WHAT IT MEANS FOR YOU!

By spending just one hour with your mentee each week, you’ll have an amazing sense of accomplishment as you give back to your community and see the positive impact you can have on a child who needs your guidance. Being a mentor is about sharing the best parts of your character with your mentee. As in any relationship with that level of trust and sharing, you are almost certain to develop a long lasting friendship. In the end, you will find you get as much out of that friendship as your mentee.

HOW YOU BECOME A MENTOR

ONE HOUR each week, that’s all it takes!
1. Fill out an application, outlining your interests and skills, and whether you have a preference for working with an elementary, middle school, or high school students. Also include your top 3 cities where you would like to mentor and whether you are looking for school-based mentoring or agency/out of school time mentoring.
2. Submit to a background check, and attend a two-hour orientation and training workshop where you’ll meet other new mentors and receive a manual with helpful tips & activities you could share with your mentee.
3. You will then receive information about your prospective mentee, and with your approval, an introductory meeting will be scheduled. Other ways to volunteer include, helping with special events or volunteering at our office answering phones or completing special projects! For more information or to inquire, please email us at inquiry@mentorri.org

Tour content includes the history of the building, as well as an overview of how our state government works. Tours will be delivered to school groups, dignitaries, and the visiting public. The ideal candidates will be well spoken, enthusiastic about learning, and comfortable speaking in front of groups. Candidates should be able to learn and retain large amounts of information. Reliability and punctuality is a must. Volunteers will develop valuable skills of public speaking, customer service, and time management that can be applied in a variety of future career settings. Training will be provided on tour content and tour guide etiquette. This is a great opportunity to gain exposure working with diverse populations and to work in the heart of Rhode Island’s state government building!
